

A Sermon on Morality

Liberal columnist E.J. Dionne is at it again:

A Sermon on Morality

Peter Wehner – 05.24.2010 – 10:26 AM

For a fellow who presumably doesn't much care for finger-wagging moralists, E.J. Dionne Jr. of the Washington Post has gotten quite good at that role over the years.

In his column today, Dionne deals with the fall from grace of Rep. Mark Souder, who resigned after admitting to an affair with an aide, as an opportunity to "shout as forcefully as I can to my conservative Christian friends: Enough! ... Enough with pretending that personal virtue is connected with political creeds. Enough with condemning your adversaries, sometimes viciously, and then insisting upon understanding after the failures of someone on your own side become known to the world." More...