

Courting Marco

Over the weekend, Marco Rubio went mum.

To the disappointment of political junkies, the freshman Florida senator once again declined a chance to play Washington's favorite parlor game: speculating on the vice-presidential sweepstakes.

Keep reading this post . . .