

Lessons from 9/11? What Lessons?

In attempting to understand 9/11, the first question asked by the world's elites – exemplified by leading media and academics – was, “What did America do to provoke such hatred?”

Ten years later, that question is still asked by the same people. And it is as morally repulsive now as it was then.

Keep reading this post . . .